Bioflavonoid 1,000™

- A bioflavonoid complex supplement with Hesperidin, Rutin and Bromelain.

- Bioflavonoids:

- Are plant pigments found in every vascular plant. These pigments give flowers and foods their yellow, orange or red color.
- Enhance the effectiveness of Vitamin C.*
- Support capillary strength and proper vascular function.*
- Are required by the body to help strengthen the overall immune system and protect Vitamin C against oxidation within the body.*
- The human body can not produce bioflavonoids, so they must be supplied in the diet.

- Bioflavonoid 1,000™ supports:

- Cardiovascular Health*
- Eye Health*
- Skin Health*
- Vascular Integrity*

Ingredients of interest:

- Mixed Citrus Bioflavonoids:

- Citrus bioflavonoids are those bioflavonoids, found in citrus fruits such as lemon, orange, tangerine, grapefruit, etc.
- Citrus bioflavonoids possess antioxidant activities, which help to support healthy aging.*

- Hesperidin:

- The flavonoid hesperidin is a flavanone glycoside comprised of the flavanone (a class of flavonoids) hesperitin and the disaccharide rutinose.
- Hesperidin supports joint and nasal comfort as well as vascular function through its ability to interfere with the metabolism of arachidonic acid as well as with histamine release.*

- Rutin:

- Rutin is a bioflavonoid comprised of the flavonol quercetin and the disaccharide rutinose.
- Quercetin is an antioxidant that helps to maintain prostaglandin levels.*
- As an antioxidant, Rutin has been demonstrated to scavenge superoxide radicals.*
- Rutin may also help maintain levels of the biological antioxidant glutathione, the master antioxidant within all cells.* Taken with Vitamin C, it helps inhibit the oxidation of Vitamin C.*

- Bromelain:

- Bromelain supports digestion of protein, which left undigested may promote certain allergic reactions in the body.*
- Bromelain is beneficial in treating swelling due to trauma or surgery.*

- Pectin:

- A natural fiber that supports vascular health by helping to keep cholesterol within normal ranges.*
